Air war! It could get violent out there with all those flying objects taking pictures in neighborhoods across this country! The growing backlash tonight against drones! From NBC news, world headquarters in New York, this is NBC Nightly news with Brian Williams! An emerging issue tonight on the topic of drones! Now that they are available and affordable and not just meant for military anymore. That means there are more of them in the skies! Most of them looking down on what lies beneath with high definition cameras! Some people upon seeing them above, their beach or their yard or their window, are tempted to grab a shotgun and treat them like skeet with rotors. And that's the problem! Our report tonight from NBC's Migell Amagaer!

When Lisa Price looked out her living room window in downtown Seattle, "I saw the drone right there!", she couldn't believe what was looking back! "It was pretty scary and then I realized that I had no clothes on" 26 floors up, she snapped this pictures of a drone, she feared, was taking pictures of her. "I did feel violated and I am concerned about how this sort of thing will change our world!" Exploding in popularity, drones are everywhere and so is the fight over privacy! "Get off from me. You are assaulting me!" Police say this teenager in Connecticut was assaulted by a woman after his drone was spotted flying over beachgoers! "They are trying to hit the drone out of the sky" In Loa Angeles, hockey fans knocked this drone out of the air and smashed into pieces! Drones can fly just about anywhere and shoot just about anything! They are fairly cheap to buy and pretty easy to use. The pictures they take are incredible.

With congress now asking the FAA to come up with additional safety guidelines for civilian drones by next year, 36 states have already introduced legislation to provide privacy protection from drones! "Technology develops much faster than the laws can develop and keep up!" Back in Seattle, a real estate contractor apologized to Linda Price saying the drone outside her window was shooting property! But the FAA estimates there could be more than 7000 civilian drones in the air by next year, bringing new perspective on the right to privacy! Migell Amagaer NBC news, Los Angeles.
